What is College in High School?

College in High School is a way to obtain college credits while still in high school. Geibel students can earn credits from Seton Hill University, Saint Vincent College, and Mount Aloysius College during the school day. Credits can be transferred to colleges and universities across the nation other than those issuing the credit.

Are College in High School courses at Geibel Catholic real college courses?

Yes, the College in High School courses taught at Geibel are actual courses registered and accepted at each college or university that advance the student toward college graduation. The courses taught at Geibel Catholic are reviewed and approved by each college's academic departments and registrars. Many Geibel Catholic students who take advantage of the program begin as Sophomores in college immediately after graduation from Geibel Catholic.

Who teaches the college courses?
